

HUMAN RECEPTOR PROTEINS; RELATED REAGENTS AND METHODS

5

ABSTRACT

Nucleic acids encoding mammalian Toll-like receptors (TLRs) have been identified in human cells. Recombinantly produced TLRs are used in the preparation of antibodies that are 10 capable of binding to the TLRs. The antibodies are advantageously used in the prevention and treatment of septic shock, inflammatory conditions, and viral infections.

1
T00724XK1
00500-00000 00000-00000